Abstract
Synthesizing diverse theoretical traditions that influenced studies on inter-organizational networks, it might be envisaged that the paper offers new insights into established literature, specifically it shows a specific different perspective that highlights an organizational strategy tightly triggered by network relationship intensity.
The aim of the paper is to identify the potential impact of node organization's participation in an inter-organizational network on organizational strategy and consequently to develop a conceptual framework in the field addressing the proposal.
The main method used is critical literature review.
The main value results of the paper consist in the following proposals: the most intensive network relationships: (1) the higher alignment to the environment; (2) the weaker resource allocation; (3) the weaker orientation to internal growth (4) the shorter time horizon; (5) the less volume of managerial goals, desires, values; (6) the less autonomy and decision reversibility. Furthermore, the moderator and mediator variables have been proposed.

Keywords: inter-organizational network, strategy, strategy dimensions.

Introduction
The main purpose of considerations included in the paper results from the observation that participation in inter-organizational networks significantly influences the organizational strategies in terms of flexibility degree, horizontality, time responsiveness in the field perceived the participation in the network as an independent variable having influence on internal factors (like organizational strategy) value allows to envisage that the paper offers new insights into established literature and paves a cognitive and research gap to be filled in.

The main purpose of the paper is to identify the impact of node organization participation in an inter-organizational network on the character of its strategy and consequently to develop a conceptual framework in the field addressing the research proposal. In detail, the answer for the following research questions is critical: does the way in which events and in which way the intensity of relationship between inter-organizational network influence particular dimensions of a strategy?

Consequently, theoretically identifying the relationships between the character (intensity) of participation in inter-organizational networks and organizational strategy dimensions (approved for exploring and describing a strategy) treated as dependent variables constitutes the detailed aim of the paper.

This suit has a grumpy demission in March. Judge Lucy Koh knocked over the case once in 2019 and again at the beginning of 2020, following a large part of the raciocanium described above. Twitter Conservative Blogger and Activist Charles C. None of these arguments worked. So let's look at the cases. If you process a Twitter prohibition or Facebook, you will almost certainly lose. People have processed Internet platforms to banish them from long before Trump take office; Back in 2009, for example, a user of the PlayStation network was processed based on that Sony created a "company" limit or otherwise delete the posts of the users. But today, the real decision was directly against the loomer. Despite this, people continue to filing judicial actions claiming that they have been censored in social media - and today, the courts transmit another defeat. Johnson was involved in multiple processes, one of whom accused Twitter to violate his speech rights when banished him in 2015. The court disagreed and threw away the process. Morphology.
